I. Varun Naren

What is Fragile X syndrome?

- The most common inherited cause of intellectual disability, affecting about one in 4000 individuals.
- Symptoms include mild to severe learning difficulties, anxiety, ADHD, delayed and repetitive speech and autistic-like behaviours.
- Strengths include strong imitative skills, good memory and a great sense of humour.
- At least one in 800 males and one in 250 females are carriers of the gene that causes Fragile X.
